Problem Statement

A patient with diabetes suffers from erectile dysfunction. We had 3 patients reported erectile dysfunction problem due to their high glucose level and thyroid problems.

This is the article on erectile dysfunction. Erectile dysfunction (ED) is a condition that affects 100 million men worldwide. This is a condition shrouded in secrecy, and the vast majorities of men who have ED never speak or seek any treatment. This disease is a highly prevalent with a significant impact on men's health and psychology. If it is not treated, it will have serious repercussion on relationship with their dear ones (spouse or girl friend/sexual partner). In many cases, majority of the men become jealous about their partner/spouse and doubting their partners eventually it might lead to a deadly psychological disease called "Schizophrenia". A high level of chemical imbalance (dopamine level) in our brain takes the toll for these kinds of patients. Most of the people think that there may not be permanent cure for the same or may be scared of negative side effects of the drugs to cure the disease.

Erectile dysfunction (ED) is defined as persistent difficulty achieving and maintaining an erection sufficient to have sex. To maintain an erection, blood must be able to flow into and stay in the penis until orgasm.

What are the causes for erectile dysfunction?

a. Your sexual hormone (testosterone) imbalance or deficiency.

- b. Lack of blood flow in your sexual organ (a clogging of arteries in the penis).
- c. If you are suffering from any chronic disease (diabetes, heart disease, high blood pressure, thyroid, kidney disease, or any other psychological disease) it might jeopardize your sexual organ.
- d. The allopathic drugs which you are using to cure your above diseases are definitely a major factor for the ED. Also, any radiation therapy, surgery and post surgery medications, tranquilizers and pain killers too.
- e. Addiction to smoking, alcohol and drugs.
- f. High level of stress hormones (Cortisol) has major impact on your sex hormones. Your key master gland pituitary gland takes the master call of your ED health. Prolactin is the chemical from your master gland play a key role in erectile dysfunction. People suffering from hypothyroidism need to understand here that this disease enhances the secretion of prolactin thereby impacting the sex hormones.

Herbal Remedies

Some research studies show that watermelon may have effects on erectile dysfunction that are similar to the ED drug Viagra and may also increase sexual desire. Watermelon is rich in beneficial ingredients known as phytonutrients. Phytonutrients are also antioxidants. One of their benefits is that they relax the blood vessels that supply an erection. You can also try some an aphrodisiac nature of spice and food such as Shell fish, Oyster and Ginger.

Conclusion

To heal any chronic diseases, we need to heal their root cause of the problems. Doctors need to counsel the patient by understanding their family history and spend time to heal their psychological diseases as a first step to cure their disease. All the key master glands, endocrine glands, hormones need to be healed for each of the diseases which patient might suffer. The healing treatment might take anywhere between 21 day to 63 days based on multiple illness of the patient.
