Preface

It is a matter of great pride and privilege to be a member of the Editorial team of the “Heart Science and Heart Surgery Journal”. The journal is a broad perspective peer reviewed journal that aims at bridging the gap between the clinicians and the researchers and thus encourages academicians and professionals alike. Emphasis is on original evidence based research of archival value which encompasses the wide spectrum of Heart ailments and their treatments. There is ample literature available on traditional practices but there still is a dearth of credible research on emerging and interdisciplinary issues. It is the lacunae, that we endeavor to fill. Our aim is to provide an easily accessible and credible platform that welcomes all enthusiastic contributors to showcase their achievements and share the knowledge accumulated in their respective fields of work.

The journal is designed to advance scientific knowledge and foster innovative pursuits in Heart treatment. The open access online journal itself is very user friendly and the moment one logs in, it opens a world of unbiased, authentic information in the most lucid manner. Needless to say, the final version that is available online is the result of relentless efforts and hours of hard work done by the publishing editors and young researchist. I am indebted to all other members of the Editorial board to give me this huge opportunity to be part of the team. I wish and hope that we shall succeed in providing the precise information as sought by the users in a comprehensive, unbiased, evidence based and credible manner.
